

Freeview now brings you more

Freeview offers you more channels for free, which means more great shows to watch.

With so much to choose from, keeping track of what's on can be tricky. That's where the new Freeview Electronic Program Guide (EPG) can help. The Freeview EPG is an on-screen TV guide.

It lists all the programs that will be shown on the Freeview channels today and over the next 7 days.

If you have a personal video recorder (PVR), you can also record programs that are showing now or in the future.

And it's easy. You can access all of this using your remote control.

7 day on-screen program guide

With the simple press of a button, see what's on the Freeview channels today and over the next 7 days – making it easy for you to plan what you're going to watch during the week ahead.

Easy navigation

Navigating the EPG is easy with the simple-to-use menu. Best of all, you can browse the menu and continue watching your show at the same time, so you'll never miss a second of the action.

Use your remote to scroll through the channels and shows. You can also see what time each program starts and finishes.

Set program reminders

Do you have a habit of missing shows? Set a reminder on a program and you'll be prompted on screen when it's about to start – so you'll never miss your favourite shows again.

View detailed program information

View information about the show you're watching now and the program that will follow, such as format (HD), ratings classification, closed caption availability and the start and finish times. You can access this information from the main menu or when you're in TV viewing mode.

Set parental controls

Use the parental lock feature to restrict the viewing of shows – not just ones you've recorded but live ones too. You can adjust these settings so that content intended for mature audiences cannot be viewed by kids.

The ultimate free on-screen TV Guide

Never miss the end of a recorded show again with intuitive recording

The EPG has technology built in that will know when your show starts and finishes. When you record a show, it will automatically record from the beginning to the end of the program, so you'll never miss the end of a program again, even if your show runs 30 minutes over!

Watch and record different channels at the same time*

Watch one program and record another on a different channel simultaneously.

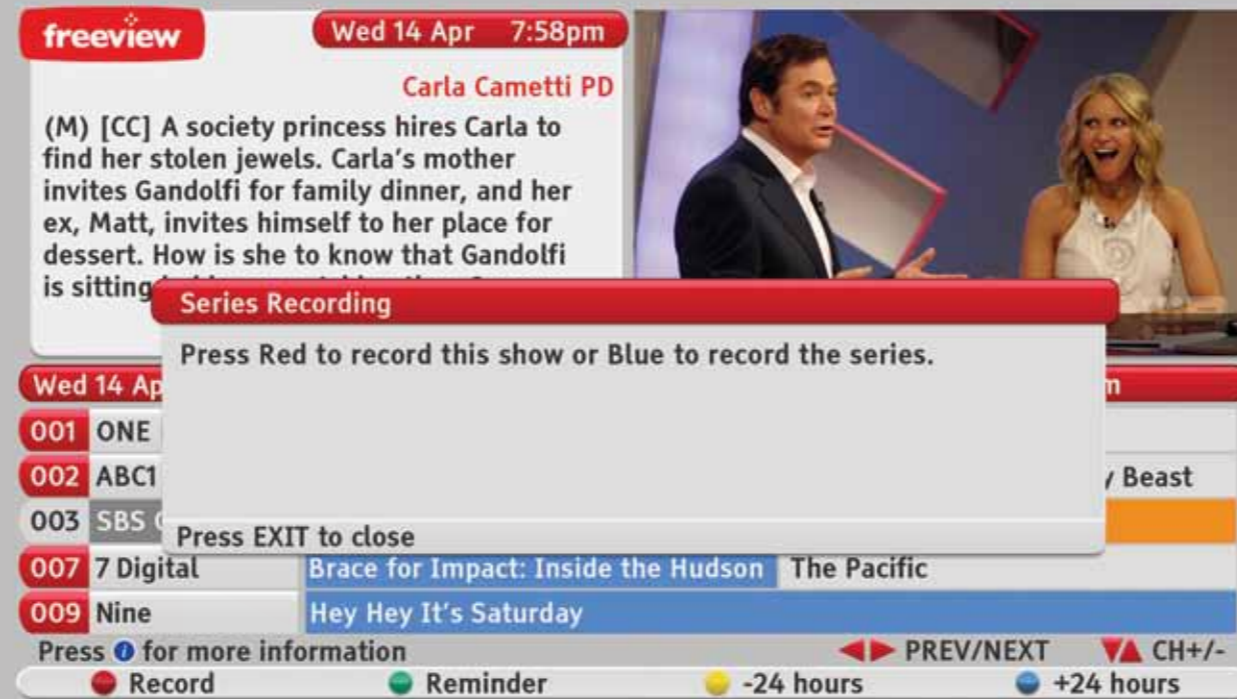

Pause and rewind live TV

Never miss a moment of your favourite show ever again.

Record a TV series

Record all of the episodes in a season using the 'series link' function.

* Some models may not feature this function. Please check with your retailer prior to purchase.

One touch recording

In addition to these great features, digital recording devices (usually known as Personal Video Recorders or PVRs) have the added capability of being able to record straight from the EPG to the device.

How do you get the Freeview EPG on your TV?

To start enjoying all the features of the new Freeview EPG, you need to purchase a set top box, TV or PVR that has this logo on it:

These products contain the technology needed to receive the Freeview EPG. They will also convert you to digital.

The features that you will receive when you purchase a product with the Freeview EPG logo on it are shown in the table below.
